

ABOUT AUTHORS

MILKO VASSILEV is an arabist specializing in the field of industrial development, economic growth and political problems of the Arab countries and Afghanistan, as well as the problems of the global oil market. He holds a Ph.D. in Economics (1991). He has twenty years of experience as lecturer in the area of Arab countries' international relations at the University of Sofia St. Kl. Ohridski. Vassilev has been Adviser to the Minister of Defense, Deputy Director of what is known nowadays as "Military Information" Department at the MoD with delegated rights of civic control on behalf of the Minister of Defense (1993-1994). He has also been Head of "Innovation Policy" Department of the Ministry of Economic Development. Vassilev has worked over 10 years in the field of strategic analysis at the National Bureau of Investigation at the Ministry of Interior, Head of Department till 2010 and Acting director of the State National Security Agency's Analytic Department (2008), Colonel. Adjunct Associate Professor at Sofia University "St. Kliment Ohridski" and the University of National and World Economy, author of three monographs focused on the analysis of national intelligence's covert operations as well as over 20 scholarly articles including issues of national security and terrorism.

Contact address: mlkchango@gmail.com

BERTRAND LAMENICIER is known for his work in the field of economic analysis of law as well as his research on topics that are considered difficult by political scientists and philosophers such as family, the just war, private property as coupled with morality; the ban on smoking; economics of education, Social Choice and others. Professor Lamencier is the author and co-author of eleven books and over 100 articles. He pretends being a proponent of the Austrian School of Economics. He is a member of the "Mont Pelerin" Society and the International Society for Individual Liberty. Professor Lamencier is a longtime lecturer at the Summer School of Economics at the University of Marseille - Aix-en-Provence, where some 300 Bulgarian students came to know him in person.

Contact address: bertrand.lemennicier@gmail.com

VLADIMIR MILENSKI is a retired Bulgarian Army Colonel with significant experience in defence policy domain from the difficult transitional period of preparing for accession and integration to NATO and the European Union. He is one of the first Bulgarian officers on international assignments to NATO HQs yet before the actual Bulgarian membership of the Alliance. For three years he worked at the Bulgarian permanent representation to the EU where he was the national representative in the Politico-Military Working Party of the Council – the body dealing with every politico-military issue of the Common Foreign Security and Defence Policy of the Union. For the last three years preceding his retirement from the Ministry of Defence, at the end of which he was acting Defence Policy Director, he was extensively and predominantly dealing with the major project of the Ministry of Defence, aimed at restructuring and modernising the defence system. Currently he is working on projects in the domain of Security Sector Reform and Defence Institution Building in countries in transition.

Contact address: v.milenski@gmail.com

ATANAS SLAVOV holds Ph.D. in Constitutional law (2009) and LL.M. (2003) both from Sofia University “St. Kliment Ohridski”, Bulgaria. Dr. Slavov lectures at Sofia University (Public Administration Department and European Studies Department). Currently, he is working on a postgraduate research project on democratic consolidation and political theology in Eastern Christian context at the University of Glasgow. He has specialized in the areas of constitutionalism and liberal political theory at the Institute for Humane Studies (United States, VA), Institute for Human Sciences (IWM, Vienna), Theodor Heus Academy (Germany). His research interests and publications are focused on constitutional theory, direct democracy and citizens’ participation, law and religion, political theology.

Contact address: atanas_slavov@yahoo.com

STOYCHO STOYCHEV is assistant professor in quantitative analysis and political economy at the Political Science Department, Sofia University. „My research is focused on the process of transformation and professionalization of parliamentary elites and policy making capacity of the parliamentary institution, especially on issues concerning organized crime and high-profile political corruption. Apart from these thematic fields, I work on the development of improved analytical techniques for analysis of social data and on diverse applications of set-theoretic configurational comparative methods.” Contact address: stoycho@stoychev.eu

Todor Tanev is a professor at Sofia University “St. Kliment Ohridski”, Doctor of Political Science. He teaches also at the American University in Bulgaria, the University of Veliko Tarnovo and New Bulgarian University. His interests are in the area of strategic analysis, strategic management, security, good governance, political culture. He has had 11 long-term and 8 short-term fellowships in American and European universities and has participated in various international projects of the EU and NATO. On this basis Dr. Tanev has concentrated his research in recent years on Statesmanship, Grand strategy and the Network society of 21st century.

Contact address: todor.tanev@gmail.com